GovDelivery named to Fast 50 list for fifth-consecutive year

Minneapolis-St. Paul Business Journal selects fastest-growing private companies

Saint Paul, MN — Oct. 28, 2010 – GovDelivery has been named to the Minneapolis-St. Paul Business Journal Fast 50 list for the fifth-consecutive year for its dramatic growth. GovDelivery is ranked #21 on this year’s listing, up from #32 in 2009.

Founded in 1999, GovDelivery is a digital communications solution used by more than 400 government agencies in the U.S., U.K. and Canada to reach audiences with information via email, text messaging, RSS and social media. Government clients send 200 million messages each month on topics such as road closures, health information and recreation updates.

GovDelivery CEO and co-founder Scott Burns said the recognition by the respected business publication demonstrates the company continues to offer a valuable service that is greatly needed.

“We are fortunate that our business continues to be seen as a reliable, quality service that gives our clients enhanced communications capabilities that transcend the traditional method of print newsletters,” Burns continued. “Government continues to feel increased pressure to better connect with citizens and bridge gaps between itself and its constituents. As a result, we are growing our company to better serve the public.”

GovDelivery clients have collectively sent more than 2 billion digital messages to more than 20 million subscribers year-to-date. The company’s client list includes more than half of all major federal agencies, and state, county and city governments across 30 states, in addition to major U.K. government agencies such as Parliament and Highways Agency.
